

Target

Hit the Halloween bull's-eye with an easy duct-tape design applied to a black shirt — then score an extra point with our arrow hat, made from a length of wire hanger and two straws.

You will need:

- Red, black, blue, and white duct tape
- Parchment paper
- Assorted sizes of plates, bowls, and glasses
- Black sweatshirt and pants
- Wire cutters
- Wire hanger
- 2 plastic straws

The Target

1. Stick adjoining strips of white duct tape to a sheet of parchment paper, covering an area just bigger than a dinner plate (ours was 10½ inches in diameter). Trace the plate. Repeat with the blue, red, and black tape, tracing three increasingly smaller circles (we traced 8- and 6-inch-diameter bowls and a 3½-inch-diameter glass) (A).

2. Cut along the traced lines. Peel the white circle from the parchment and stick it to the shirt's front, then affix the other circles atop to create the target design.

The Arrow

With the wire cutters, cut the straight bottom segment from the hanger. Bend it to form an arch that will fit over your child's head. Trim about 1½ inches from each straw. Sandwich one end of each straw between squares of duct tape. Trim the duct tape into a point and feathers (B). Slip the straws over the wire ends and secure them with more tape.
